

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

P R E F A C E .

THIS little book is intended for the use of those persons who have not the time to study the Louvre by aid of the official catalogues, and yet desire a fuller knowledge of its various contents than is to be obtained from the numerous guide books to Paris. In these latter, many of the collections are left unnoticed altogether ; and, even in the Picture and Sculpture Galleries, only the principal works are mentioned. On the other hand, the official catalogues are expensive and cumbersome, and are more elaborate in their details than the ordinary visitor requires. It has, therefore, been thought that a Handbook might be useful, which, embracing all departments of the Museum, should give in addition any information or notes likely to prove interesting to the public.

As much as possible the absurd practice of changing proper names has been avoided ; but, when considered absolutely necessary, the real name of the artist has been placed in brackets after the popular one. It has also been thought useful to put the school, and the dates of birth and death, after the name the first time it appears ; in both cases, as indeed in nearly all the information given in these pages, adhering to that culled from the French official catalogues.

When any gallery or room has any particular name attached to it, it has been thought more useful to maintain it in French rather than to translate it.

At the head of each section will be seen a list of the catalogues in which the various objects are to be found, and a plan, with the cases numbered as in the text, which will render the search for any particular specimen perfectly easy to the most hurried visitor. A general plan of each floor is also given, every room numbered to correspond with the small plans, and the staircases marked.

No time or trouble have been spared to make the book as correct as possible, but in such a work some clerical errors can scarcely be avoided ; I shall, therefore, be grateful to any persons using it, if they will inform me of those they may discover. The great difficulty has been to compress so much subject matter into a small space ; and I can only reply to those who may consider the book too laconic, that I have suppressed all but the most necessary words in order to make it as portable as possible.

In conclusion, I would remark that I have abstained from all personal opinions or comments, simply acting as a condenser or abridger of the official catalogues, in the hope that my work may be the means of enabling visitors to Paris the better to enjoy the wondrous Art treasures contained in the National Museum ; for it must be borne in mind that here, under one roof, can be studied the gradual development of Art from the earliest Egyptian period to the present time, including the most perfect specimens of Painting, Sculpture, Drawings, Bronzes, Faience, Ivory and Wood Carving, Jewellery, Gold and Silversmiths' Work, Enamels, Medals, etc. But, lest any one should wish to study the Museum more thoroughly, I have given a complete list of the catalogues, all of which are compiled with the greatest care by the learned keepers of the different collections.

THE LOUVRE.

Entering from the Place de Carrousel, by the Pavillon Denon (page 204), turn to the left, and mount the staircase (Éscalier Daru, page 205) at the end of the gallery. On the second landing, is the

- 476 Nikè of Samothracia. Par. mar. Prow of Vessel, granite. Although of the epoch of the successors of Alexander, it approaches the grand style of Pheidias, and can be compared to the statue of Iris from the Parthenon (British Museum) and the Torso of the second daughter of Niobe (Vatican). Re-composed out of 118 fragments. Probably a votive statue for some naval victory.

Upon the upper landings,

2. GALERIE D'APOLLON.

The present gallery was begun by Louis XIV. ; the old one, built by Charles IX. and Henri IV., having been destroyed by fire soon after the former's marriage. The ceiling was designed and partly painted by Le Brun, and was intended as an allegory of the King's reign ; Louis having assumed as his emblem, Apollo, the god of the Arts, and as his device a sun enlightening the world, with the motto : NEC PLURIBUS IMPAR (not an unequal match for numbers). The architects were Gaspard and Balthasar de Marsy, François Girardon, and Thomas Regnaudin.

The paintings are as follows :—

Over the door on entering,

The Awakening of the Earth ; designed by Le Brun, and painted by Guichard (J.)

Centre,

Apollo vanquishing the Python. Delacroix (E.)

At the end over the window looking on to the Seine,

The Awakening of the Waters. Le Brun.

Twilight and Evening. Le Brun.

Aurora. Le Brun. Destroyed ; repainted by Muller (C.)

Castor, Star of the Morning. Renou.

Winter. Lagrenée (the younger).

Spring. Callet.

Summer. Durameau.

Autumn. Taraval.

The decorative painting was commenced in 1666, by the brothers Lemoine, Gontier, and Gervaise, and after 1677 continued by Derchy, Dieterle, Durrer, Duvieux, Fouquet, Haumont, and Ternante. The gallery was only finished in 1851. The portraits in Gobelins tapestry have been since added ; they are all named.

The Florentine mosaic table at the entrance belonged to Cardinal Richelieu.

The three cases in the centre were designed by Rossignieux, and carved by Gasc. Period Louis XIV.

Cabinets ; boule, lac. 16th, 17th centuries.

Japanese vases, Ormolu mountings. Period Louis XV.

Porphyry and Sèvres vases.

Geographical table, made for the Dauphin, son of Louis XIV.

ENAMELS.

Enamel is a silicate (or glass) coloured by certain metallic oxides, broken up into powder, and made into a paste ; this is placed upon metal, and passed through the fire, which causes the two materials to adhere to one another.

In Cloisonné enamel, the thin bands of filigree which form the design, are soldered upon the metal ground.

In Champlevé, the ground is cut, or dug away, leaving the divisions standing.

In Translucent, the design is chased upon the metal, and transparent colours laid upon it.

Painted enamels are simply pictures painted upon copper, and then fired.

PICTURES.

The collection now in the Museum, was commenced by François I., for the new palace of Fontainebleau. Louis XIV. increased the number from 200 to 2,000, many of the best having belonged to Charles I., of England. After that king's death, the Commonwealth disposed of most of his works of Art, the pictures selling for only £49,903, whereas they had cost £80,000. Jabach, the Köln banker, was the principal purchaser ; but in 1671, he too was compelled to sell the collection to Colbert. Amongst these were Correggio's Antiope ; Giorgione's Virgin and Child ; Tiziano's Entombment, The Disciples at Emmaus, Jupiter and Antiope, and his Mistress ; and Lionardo's S. John Baptist. Under Louis XV. and XVI. the collection was increased, and the Republic in 1793 voted 100,000 fr. for the purchase of any works of Art at the public sales, in order to prevent their leaving France. Napoleon enriched it by robbing most of the Churches and Galleries of Europe, but upon the Restoration nearly all were returned. Louis XVIII. added 111 ; Charles X., 24 ; Louis Philippe, 33 ; and the various succeeding governments, 22 ; at the present time the number amounts to 2,432, including the La Caze collection.

It was commenced by Colbert, who bought the one formed by the banker Jabach, the principal purchaser of Charles I.'s gallery, dispersed in 1650-3. In 1671, Jabach, falling into pecuniary difficulties, offered his whole collection—bronzes, gems, marbles, furniture, plate, pictures, and drawings—to Louis XIV. for 581,025 fr. Colbert considered this sum "exorbitant," although it was admitted to be far below the price paid by the banker, who had given 52,275 fr. for 7 pictures only, whereas Colbert paid 80,000 fr. for 101. But it was a bad time for selling works of art—Correggio's Antiope, for which Mazarin had paid 25,000 fr., only costing Colbert 5,000 fr.—and Jabach was in such straits that he was prepared to accept any offer. His last letter upon the subject is pathetic in the extreme, pointing out the importunity of his creditors, and ending thus :— "Considéris au nom de Dieu que ie me trouue entre le marteau et l'enclume, et que j'ay à faire à des gens avec qui il n'y a aucun quartier, ie vous en coniure de rechef du fond du cœur, estant, Monsieur." This letter decided Colbert, and he offered the needy banker 220,000 fr., which was immediately accepted. It is curious to find amongst the "refuse," valued at 3 fr. each, No. 382 (da Vinci), 315 (Raffaello), 114 (Michel Angelo), 420 (F. Lippi), all now in Salle des Boites (2nd floor, p. 255). From Colbert's time until the present day, the collection has been constantly increasing by purchases made at sales—especially those of Crozat, Mariette, and Baldinucci ; by pillage under Napoléon ; and by donations.

The Roman numerals refer to the numbers over the doors ; the others to those on the plan.

Plastic Wax Medallions.

The art of modelling portrait bas-reliefs in wax was known to the Greeks and Romans, and was revived at Florence under the Medici. It was practised by Luca della Robbia, L. da Vinci, and Santorino (whose model of the Laocöon was considered by Raffaello to be a chef d'œuvre); by Michel Angelo (to whom is attributed a Descent from the Cross in the Chapel of the Royal Palace at München); and by Benvenuto Cellini, a model of whose Perseus is extant at Florence. To these succeeded a number of artists, such as Alfonzo Lombardi of Ferrara; J. B. Sozzini of Siena; and Rosso da Guigny of Florence, who emulated the success of the Ger. artists in wood medallions. The Ital. Art becoming the fashion in Germany, it was taken up by Laurenz Strauch and Wenceslas Maller, both of Nuremberg, in the 16th Cent., and practised in the 17th and 18th Cents. by C. Rapp, Chevalier (worker in ivory), Weißenmeyer, and Braunin. It is probable that the medallions in polychrome were executed as portraits; while those in white were simply studies made by engravers for br. medals.

SIDE 2.

CASE B.

- *23 Statuette. Br. Face, hair, arms, and feet gilt. Necklace and dress gold niello. Queen Karomama, wife of Takelothis I. or II.
XXII. Dy. Inscription on red metal, niello, gives the artist's name—a priest of Ammon, Aah-nekht, who erected it in honour of the Princess.

SIDE 3.

CASE C.

- 456 A series of royal cartouches, chronologically classified, from Menes to the Emperor Antoninus.

WINDOW 4.

CASE S.

 — A saucer on which is written a marriage contract of the 4th year of Psametik II. XXVI. Dy.

CASE R.

- 265 Small royal sphinx supporting a table of offerings and the cartouche Mer-amen-se-amen. Br., incrustated gold. Mariette identifies this King with Smendes, XXI. Dy.
 385 Flat bottle. Enamelled clay. XXVI. Dy.
 *241 Fragment of a head, painted. Wood.

CENTRE 5.

CASE I.

- 536 Mask. Thick gold leaf. Found in the mummy case attribd. to Prince Kha-em-uas, son of Ramses II. XIX. Dy. (Mariette).
 537 Chain. Gold.
 540 Amulet. Red quartz.
 543 Scarabaeus. Green jasper. Engraved; 10 lines of the 27th Chap. of the "Ritual," or "Book of the Departure from the Day," relating to the preservation of the heart. These three objects were also in the mummy case with the mask, No. 536.

CASE H.

- *535 Hawk with ram's head. Gold, incrustated with glass paste. The hawk symbolizing Horus, the rising Sun, the ram's head the nocturnal Sun, this evidently represents the orb eternally succeeding himself in his daily course upon earth, and in his nightly one through the inferior hemisphere.

- 494 Ring. Gold, with revolving bezel, formed of a scarabaeus in hard stone, engraved with a reed and bee, the emblems of sovereignty over Higher and Lower Egypt, and the sign noub above the scarabaeus. Noub signified modelling; the forming of the new being after death. A similar scarabaeus in Case C. is classed between the XIII. and XVII. Dy.
- 593 Scarabaeus. Lapis, mounted on a plate of gold incusted with glass plaques; form of a naos, or temple in which Isis and Nephthys extend the hand over the scarabaeus in token of protection. Engraved on the base, 12 lines from the 30th Chap. of the "Ritual."
- 358 Cup or bowl. Gold, ornamented with a wreath of papyrus flowers, in the middle of which are some fish, repoussé. Intended to represent a pond of fish and plants, when filled with water. From the inscription it appears to have been given by Touthmes III. to the functionary Toth, in reward for services. XXVIII. Dy.
- 359 Cup. Silver. Similar to the above, of same origin.
- *522 Plaque. Green basalt, covered with gold, and incrustations of enamel. Centre: a scarabaeus in relief, symbolizing the future: The transition from death to life: Isis and Nephthys adoring. XIX. Dy. On back: 27th and 30th Chap. of the "Ritual" engraved.
- 597 Scarabaeus. Felspar and gold.
- *691 Aegis or shield, surmounted by a lion's head, etc. Gold. At back: two cartouches of the "Son of the Sun Uasarkon," and of "The Divine Mother, royal spouse Tati-Bart." XXII. Dy.
- *481 Signet ring. Massive gold. On one side of the bezel, the cartouche (or seal) of King Horus. XVIII. Dy.
- 521 Naos, small temple. Gold, incusted glass paste. Cartouche of Ramses II. XIX. Dy.
- 486 Ring. Gold. On the bezel, two horses in relief; thought by Mon. Rougé to have been consecrated by Ramses II. to the Sun, in memory of the services rendered him in his campaign against the Khetas.
- *534 Hawk with extended wings; emblem of the rising Sun. Gold, incusted in glass paste.

- *468 Ring with revolving bezel. Massive gold. An inscription to Amenophis I. XVIII. Dy.
- *533 Bull Apis. Porcelain.
- 457 Ring. Gold; revolving bezel, sardonyx. The name engraved, Ra-en-ma, is Amenemha III. XII. Dy. One of the best specimens of very early engraving on hard stone.

ON THE CHIMNEY PIECE.

- * — Statuette. Stealite. Amenophis IV. XVIII. Dy. The lower part of the legs and feet are modern.

- *XI. 2 Hieratic papyrus. Fragment of the Sallier papyrus (No. 3) in the British Museum; being one of the first pages of a poem in which Pen-ta-our, a contemporary of Moses, celebrates an episode of one of principal campaigns of Ramses II. The King seems to have been in great danger, being separated from the main army, and, accompanied only by a small escort, was attacked by a corps-d'élite, composed of 2,500 chariots.

The following is an account of the attack :

- Line 1.* "Some days after these (events) the King was at Ramses Meriamoun, city

- *I. 1 Papyrus of Amen-m-saou-v. (A). Hieroglyphic MS. relating to the different phases of the Sun. XIX. Dy., contemporary with Moses.
- *II. 1 Book of the Inferior or Under Hemisphere. It relates the passage of the Sun during the hours of the night. The Egyptians worshipped the Eternal Light under the material form of the sun; at his rising, the Creator, under the name of Xeptra; during his daily course, under that of Ra; and at evening as Atoum, Eternal, or Revivifier. During his nocturnal course, he was supposed to pass each hour in a different region, the night consisting, like the day, of 12 hours. This they held as a symbol of man's life—the day, his earthly existence—the night, his passage through Hades—the sunrise, his new birth. Hence the passage of the Sun through various countries, entering and issuing by gates, is symbolic of the transmigration of the soul.

- A. *21 Sphinx. Red granite. XII. Dy. Two cartouches of Ramses II., the Gr. Sesostris, are engraved on the chest and between the two front feet; but the style of work is superior to that of the XIX. Dy., and it is probably of the time of the ancient empire. Most likely an older inscription was effaced to make room for the present one. Merenptah, son of Ramses, also engraved his cartouches upon the right shoulder.

LEFT SIDE.

- A. 1 Statue. Diorite. Sekhet, creatrice of the yellow Asiatic tribes. Woman with lion's head and a solar disc ornamented with an asp. Bears the cartouche of Amenophis III. (1700 B.C.)
- C. *167 Stela. Cal. stone. D. 26 year (of Useresen I., XII. Dy.(?) Dedicated by a functionary named Antef. The phrase, "He who remembers the poor in his distress," may relate to Antef's bounties during a famine in this reign.
- D. 10 Sarcophagus. Grey granite, white veins. Sculptured by a priest named Horus, son of the Lady Taroten-Sekhet. Exterior: Scenes from the sun's nocturnal course, which are the subjects decorating all the sarcophagi.
- „ *9 Sarcophagus. Basalt. Saïte epoch, XXVI. Dy., or period of Nectanebo, XXX. Dy. Intended for one T'aho, priest of Imhotep, son of Ptah, god assimilated to Æsculapius.

- D. 29 Naos (Temple). Red granite. Dedicated by King Amasis (about 580 B.C.), a usurper, hence the defacing of the cartouches, and the standard on which is written "Upholder of Justice," which is almost illegible.
- „ *1 Sarcophagus. Red granite. Bears cartouche of Ramses III., head of XX. Dy. (1300 B.C.) The cover is at Cambridge, England.
- A. *16 Colossal statue. Red granite. King Sebek-hotep III., XIII. Dy. Legend of the king engraved on each side of throne. The practice of the Egyptian sovereigns of engraving their own legend over older ones makes it difficult to assign correct dates, but this is probably not later than 2000 B.C.

thirty-six decades of the year; each one being figured by a hawk with a human head in a boat, having a circle enclosing a star upon the head. The Egyptians counted 365 days to each year, so that the decades began alternately on the 1st, 11th, and 21st of each month during one year; and upon the 6th, 16th, and 26th of the next.

and of a commander of military forces named Psammetik. Inscription records the works executed by Horus at Heracleopolis.

- A. 20 Colossal statue. Diorite. Bears legend of Ramses the Great, but has no resemblance to the features of that monarch. Probably belongs to an earlier period, that of the first empire, XII. Dy., the sides of the throne having been re-worked in order to engrave the legend of Ramses.
- D. 8 Sarcophagus. Grey granite. Sculptured by T'aho, priest of the gods venerated in that part of Memphis called the white wall, and prophet of Ptah. Cartouche of Psammetik, XXVI. Dy.

CENTRE.

- A. 23 Sphinx. Red granite. Bears cartouche of King Merenptah, son of Ramses II. The rings under the feet symbolize a long period of centuries. This king, called by historians Menophis and Amenephthes, appears to have been the adversary of Moses. The oppressed Hebrews are known to have built a city called Ramses, which could only have been during the reign of one of that family. Moses, obliged to flee from the anger of the king, after having slain the Egyptian, suffered a long exile (Ramses II. reigned 67 years), and after his return commenced the struggles which ended in the passage of the Red Sea; this event, therefore, occurred under the son of Ramses. Merenptah was the 13th son of Ramses, and reigned about the 14th Cent. B.C. The sphinx was found at Tanis.

On the opposite side of the exit is the entrance to Assyrian, Phœnician, and Asia Minor collections. (Page 252.)

GROUND FLOOR.

ANTIQUE SCULPTURE.

Greek Sculpture may be divided into three periods :—

The Archaic.—From the commencement of Art in Greece to the time of Pericles, 460 B.C.

The Best Period.—From 460 B.C. to the death of Alexander the Great, 323 B.C.

The Decadence.—From 323 B.C. to the conquest of Greece by the Romans, 146 B.C.

The Greco-Roman Period.—146 B.C. to 138 A.D.

The Roman Decadence.—138 A.D. to 328 A.D.

The Museum possesses nearly 600 objects. It consists of the collections formerly in the royal palaces, the villas Borghese and Albani; those belonging to Cardinals Richelieu, Mazarin, and Fesch; the Campana collection; donations, purchases, etc. The Campana collection cost the Government £174,000.

Most of the sculpturés are named, and an account is added of their origin and restorations. Those not otherwise described are life-sized statues. The popular French name is placed in brackets.

- 304 Bas relief. Frieze of a sarcophagus. 3rd Cent. Bacchanalian procession.

RIGHT SIDE.

- 243 Front of sarcophagus. White mar. 3rd Cent. Dionysos and Ariadne.
- 569 Bas relief. Mithra sacrificing a bull. In the mythology of the Iranians, M. was the god of the Day; in that of the Romans, of the Sun. He was much worshipped by the latter after the expedition of Pompey against the Pirates, until 377 A.D., when Gracchus, prefect of Rome, ordered the destruction of all monuments raised in his honour. Inscription, C. C. Aufidii Januarius (s), probably records the names of the consecrators—Caius, two brothers of the Aufidian family, the surname of one being Januarius. The grotto represents the world; the bull the fertility of the earth; his death the end of the fine season. The official catalogue gives a reproduction of a drawing made by Pighius, middle of 16th Cent., when it occupied its original position on the Capitol Hill, and before it was so terribly restored.
- 570 Bas-relief. White mar. Rom. Similar to No. 569.

7. SALLE DE LA PAIX.

CENTRE.

- 465 Roma sitting upon a rock in costume of Minerva. Red porphyry ; head, arms, and foot mod. br. gilt.
- Fine carved doors with monogram LA 1658 (Louis XIII. and Anne d'Autriche).

8. SALLE DE SEPTIME SÈVÈRE.

LEFT SIDE.

- Bas reliefs.
- Busts Roman emperors.

RIGHT SIDE.

- 38 Bas relief; part of Trajan's Forum (?) White mar. Roman soldiers before the temple of Jupiter of the Capitol. It was destroyed three times by fire ; during the civil wars of Marius and Sylla, after the fall of Vitellius, and during the reign of Titus. Rebuilt by Domitian, it remained until the Middle Ages, and it is probably the latter building which figures upon this bas relief. The doors were covered with gold plates, which were carried off in the 5th Cent. during a financial crisis by order of the general Silicho.

9. SALLE DES ANTONINS.

- Statues and busts of Roman Emperors and Empresses.

10. SALLE D'AUGUSTE.

- Statues and busts of Roman Emperors and Empresses.
- Augustus.
- Pavement. Rom. Mosaic.

Return to 4. ROTONDE.

11. SALLE DE PHIDIAS.

SIDE 1.

- *6 Bas relief. Domestic scene of the gods of Olympus : Zeus, Hera, and Hebe.

IN WINDOW.

- 289 Votive bas relief. Archaic Gr. Pan and the Nymphs.
- 410 Bas relief. Gr. mar. Oblong votive stela. Greek family offering a sacrifice. The divinities are of larger proportions than the terrestrials : a manner of signifying the respect due to the former, practised in all early art.

- *574 Colossal torso of a goddess (Demeter?) Par. mar. Sch. of Pheidias. The iron tenons indicate early restorations. Pausanias relates that the sculptors of his time used iron and putty to adjust the different parts of a statue.
- *448 Colossal bust. Par. mar. Alexander the Great, formerly called Inopus. Style of the Parthenon sculptures; not much later than Pheidias. Found on the Island of Delos, it may have been in the Temple of Apollo, which was situated on the canal separating the sacred island from the Necropolis of Rhenea.
- 112 Statue. Par. mar. Head, Pen. mar. Athènè au Collier.

SIDE 2.

- Bas reliefs of the architrave of a temple at Assos, in Mysia.

WINDOW 3.

- *8 Votive bas relief. Invocation to the divinities of Gortyna, Crete.

SIDE 4.

- 198 Double head. White mar. Imitation of primitive style. Hermes and Hestia.
- 475 Goddess restored into a Hope. Gr. mar. The antique part archaic. Gr. style, anterior to Pheidias.
- *124 Bas relief. Par. mar. Purest Attic style. The Olive sacred to Athènè; created by the Goddess, and given to King Erechtheus. It was planted in the Pandrosion, and lost all its verdure when the Persians set fire to the Citadel. Pliny spoke of it as still existing in his time (16, 240).
- Below, is a slab bearing an inscription, 409 B.C. of the expenses incurred by the Treasurers of the Parthenon.

WINDOW 5.

- 270 Bas relief. Gr. mar. Faun and Panther.
- *13 Bas relief. Imitation of Hieratic style. Apollo, Artemis and Nikè.
- *15 Bas relief. Gr. mar. Apollo and Nikè.
- *17 Bas relief. Leto.

- 486 Votive bas relief. Pen. mar. Imitation of ancient style. Sacrifice of a victorious Athenian general to Minerva Polias. Considered by some archaeologists to be Themistocles' ex voto, after the battle of Salamis.
- 205 Votive bas relief. Imitation of Archaic style. Dionysos and the Hours.
- 129 Bas relief. Pen. mar. Attic style. Invocation to Ares.

SIDE 6.

- 210 Head. Archaic Dionysos. White mar. Imitation of ancient style.

WINDOW 7.

- 83 Bas relief. Pen. mar. Imitation of Hieratic style. Contest for the Tripod.

SIDE 8.

- 186 Hermes, called Talleyrand Jupiter. Par. mar. Free imitation of ancient religious style, which may be attribd. to the last century of the Roman Republic; similar to Pan in British Museum.
- 9-10-11 Bas reliefs, formerly an uninterrupted frieze. Very brittle mar. Ancient style, end of 6th or commencement of 5th Cent. B.C. Apollo, Hermes, Graces, and Nymphs. Found Island of Thasos.
- * — Bas relief. Pen. mar. Part of eastern frieze of Parthenon, above principal entrance, near north corner. Panathenaic Procession. From the birth of Peseistratus, the Athenians were in the habit of celebrating every four years, the birth of their patroness. The festival took place about the 9th August. The procession formed at sunrise, and entering the city by the Dipylon, and crossing the square of the Agora, it was then directed towards the Propylea. A hetacomb was offered at the altar of Minerva Polias, who also received a new robe, embroidered by maidens of noble birth. A hundred young girls, called Canaphores, carried vessels of silver and gold, purchased by the State for this purpose. This fragment represents six of these Canaphores and two priests, who receive the oblations. The Parthenon, constructed under Pericles, was finished 437 B.C., the sculptures being entirely the work of Pheidias and his pupils, the two principal of whom were Alkamenes and Agorakritos. Probably the background was originally painted blue, and the hair and parts of the figures, gilt.

- *126 Metope of the Parthenon (No. 10 of the 12 front ones). Pen. mar.
Centaur carrying off a woman.
- 112 Statuette. Pen. mar. Archaic Attic style. Athenè. Similar to Minerva, on the pediment of Temple of Ægina.

CENTRE.

- *1 Base of Tripod, called Altar of the 12 Gods. Pen. mar. Archaic style. The attitudes of the upper row of deities with their legs close together, is thought to be symbolic of the belief that the gods moved without separating their feet.

17. SALLE DE LA VÉNUS DE MILO.

- 136 Vénus de Milo. Corallitic mar. Belongs to the epoch between Pheidias and Praxiteles ; probably, from the resemblance in style to the Niobe group at Florence, by the same sculptor, Scopas, who lived during the reign of Philip of Macedon, 4th Cent. B.C. The care with which the back is modelled, proves it to have been in some open place. Much difference of opinion prevails as to the action of the arms ; but Mon. Claudius Tarral considers that the fragments of an arm and hand holding an apple, found with the statue, indicate that the left arm was raised and the right hanging down, the hand clasping the drapery in the manner of the torso of Aphroditè at the entrance of Salle 5. This opinion is upheld by Mon. Fröhner, the conservateur of this department of the museum. The ears are pierced, probably for gold or pearl pendants. Judging from certain defects—the smallness of the head, the irregularity of the two sides of the mouth (the right cheek being fuller than the left), and the imperfections of the foot—it was evidently modelled from life. The drapery is quite transparent, and the marble of an exquisite tone. This and the Aphroditè (Salle 5) are exceptionally lifelike in the fleshiness of the marble. A gold necklace, ear-rings, and some other Byzan. ornaments were discovered in the same place as the statue—the Island of Melos.

SIDE 2.

- *— Venus (Falerone). Similar in attitude to Vénus de Milo.
 *379 Euterpe. Gr. mar.

SIDE 3.

- 386 Colossal statue. One block of Pen. mar. Melpomene. Formerly in the court of the palace, constructed (after 1495) by Bramante for Cardinal Raffaello Riario, which stands upon the site of Pompey's theatre. The 44 columns of red granite which ornament the court no doubt belonged to that building. (The Cardinal R. also robbed the Coliseum for his palace.) It is, therefore, possible that the statue decorated the theatre which was erected in 55 B.C., after the model of the one of Mitylene; but as the stage was burnt four times (A.D. 22, 79-81, 247, and 282-4), and finally destroyed during the reign of Arcadius and Honorius, it is not probable that it ornamented that part of the building. The auditorium remained standing until the 12th Cent.

SIDE 4.

*380 Euterpe. Gr. mar.

WINDOW 5.

164 Bust. Gr. mar. Aphroditè (Venus of Knidos).

The apse behind Melpomene was begun by Raymond, and finished under the Restoration by Percier and Fontaine. The small mosaic in front of the pedestal is antique. The large one was executed by François Belloni, Director of the School of Mosaic founded in Paris by Napoléon, from designs by Baron Gérard.

41 Bust. Pen. mar. Ganymedes, called Paris.

103 Sarcophagus. Luna mar. Rom. Artemis and Actæon.

*213 Head. Gr. mar. Dionysos Pogon (with long beard). Suggestive of archaic types of Oriental Bacchus.

*114 Pallas (Velletri). Par. mar. Probably Rom. 1st Cent. A.D. Imitation of some celebrated Gr. statue.

60 Bas relief. Par. mar. Demeter and Polyhymnia.

*403 Colossal bust. Asklepios. A fragment of the right arm exists, showing that the head and arm were originally part of a statue.

*81 Colossal bust. Luna mar. Apollo.

69 Colossal bust. Pen. mar. Archaic Apollo; type of the statue by Kanachos, executed for the oracle of the Branchidæ, at Miletus, which held a bow in the left hand and a faun in the right. Kanachos lived about 467 B.C.

*55 Demeter. Pen. mar.

303 Child (à l'outré), with leathern bottle. Par. mar. Decoration for a fountain.

*445 Cippe. Rom. 1st Cent. Naiads and Cupids.

14 Bas relief. Gr. mar. Artemis and Apollo before Nikè. Imitation Archaic style, the character of which has been destroyed by the modern restorer.

316 Krater (aux Masques). Par. mar. Gr.

493 Genius of Eternal Repose. Pen. mar. Rom.

— Bust. Pen. mar. Alexander the Great. Probably had a br. band round his head.

142 Venus. Par. mar. Antique imitation of the Capitol Venus.

— Sarcophagus. Porphyry.

*137 Venus (d'Arles). Mar. of Mount Hymettus. Sch. of Praxiteles. The theatre, in the ruins of which this statue was found, was considered to have been a temple of Diana. Hence a quatrain by De Vertron, in the "Mercure galant," August, 1684 :—

" Silence, Calisthène, et ne dispute plus !
Tes sentimens sont trop profanes :
Daus Arles c'est à tort que tu cherches Vénus ;
L'on n'y trouve que des Dianas."

But it is now proved that the building was the theatre which was destroyed in the 5th Cent. by S. Hilary, who employed the materials in building churches. The Julian family claiming descent from Venus and Anchises, there is nothing extraordinary in the worship of the former in the city of Arles, the Colonia Julia Arelatensis. A few years since a bust of Aphrodité was found amongst the same ruins.

- Bust of Homer. Pen. mar.
- *70 Apollo Sauroctonos (the lizard killer). Par. mar. Epoch of Alexander the Great, possibly by Praxiteles. Pliny describes a statue in br. in this attitude by that master. An antique repetition in the Vatican.
- *19 Vase (Amphora). Par. mar. Sosibios of Athens. Last Cent. Rom. Republic.

- 370 Eros and Psyche. Gr. mar.
Psyche seems to be supplica-ting Eros, who bends towards her as if promising to cease tormenting her. A similar group may be seen upon an Imperial coin of Nicomedia.
- *86 Marsyas. Pen. mar. Displays a perfect knowledge of anatomy in the swelling of the arms which support the weight of the body, the sad expression of the eyes and mouth, and the lassitude of the legs. Repetitions at Berlin, Florence, S.

LEFT SIDE—continued.

- 109 Bas relief. Mar. Forge of Hephaistos. On the restoration of works of art to their respective museums in 1815, this marble was found to be so firmly attached to the wall that removal was impossible without damage; one of the best bas reliefs then in the Louvre was, therefore, sent to Berlin in exchange. Although formerly considered of great value, it is now attribd. to the 16th Cent., and is of little worth.

SIDE 10.

- 263 Young satyrs playing the flute. Par. mar. Supposed to be copied from the Faun of Praxiteles ("periboëtos," the famous), which differed, however, in that it held a palera (cup).
*62 Young woman restored into Kora. Par. mar. Epoch of Alexander the Great.

SIDE 9.

- *406 Bas relief. White mar. Æsculapius and Hygieia. Decoration for a fountain.
272-5 Four satyrs supporting an entablature. Gr. mar. A fifth of the series is at Stockholm, and a sixth has lately been found in the ruins of the theatre of Dionysos at Athens. From this discovery it is surmised that they supported the architrave of the stage of the theatre, built by Lykurgus, about 338-30 B.C.

SIDE 6.

*291 Bacchante. Pen. mar.

WINDOW 7.

*216 Dionysos. Gr. mar. From the unfinished state of the back it is evident that this statue formed part of a group against a wall; and it appears to be of the same period as the Temple at Delphi, one of the tympana of which was ornamented with a group of Dionysos and the Thyiades, by two contemporaries of Pheidias, the Athenians, Praxias and Androsthenes.

— Fragment. Gr. mar. Young man.

CENTRE 13.

*250 Silenus carrying the young Dionysos (Faune à l'enfant). Grecchetto mar. Pliny relates that a statue similar to this existed in the portico of Octavia (Curia, or Schola Octaviae). The idea is evidently the invention of the Sch. of Praxiteles. The legs of the satyr are considered the most perfect ever produced in sculpture.

299 Centaur conquered by Love. Grecchetto mar. Appears to have been copied from one of the metopes of the Parthenon. Two analogous statues in black basalt are in the Capitol, bearing the signature of Aristeas and Papias, natives of Aphrodisias in Caria.

98 Artemis, the huntress (Diane à la Biche). Par. mar. Rom. 1st Cent. Bears resemblance in style to Apollo Belvedere, and is probably of same epoch, if not a pendant.

22. SALLE DES CARYATIDES.

This and the adjoining rooms formed part of the palace of Henri II., Henri III., and Charles IX. It was formerly called the Salle des Gardes, and formed the ante-room of the apartments of Catherine de' Medici. Here Henri IV. celebrated his nuptials with Marguerite de Valois; here the Duc de Guise hanged four of the chief Leaguers in 1574; and here Molière had his theatre, and played in 1659. Its name is derived from four colossal caryatides which support the gallery at the north end, the work of Jean Goujon, or his Sch. The br. Diana above is a cast from the one by Benvenuto Cellini, "La Nympe de Fontainebleau," now in the Salle Michel-Ange, R. S. (p. 242).

Assyrian Sculpture is of much later date than that of Egyptian. According to Mr. Fergusson, the first known date of Assyrian history is 2458 B.C., when the Medes conquered the Chaldæans. In 2235 the latter reconquered the kingdom (probably under Nimrod), and after 700 years were again invaded from the West, possibly by the Egyptians of the 18th Dynasty. The kingdom of Nineveh was founded about 1273 B.C.; the second Chaldæan kingdom about 652 B.C.; the Persian invasion, under Cyrus, 538 B.C. The sculptures recovered from Nimroud, Kouyunjik, and Khorsabad, belong to the period from 1290 B.C. to a later date before the destruction of Nineveh, 538 B.C. Mr. S. Birch gives it as between 721 B.C. and 625 B.C.

1264 Poussin (N.) F. Studies for Sacrament of Holy Orders. One of a series of pictures painted (1644-7) for Mon. de Chantelou, now in Ellesmere Collection.

1266-8 Poussin. F. Studies for Sacrament of Confirmation.

SIDE 2.

- 1277 Poussin. F. Armide, aided by cupids, carries off Renaud while sleeping. First idea for picture painted (1638) for Stella. When Poussin sent the picture home, he wrote the Sieur Stella of "the pains he had taken to do it well," and added, "the treatment of the subject is entirely my own, differing from the picture by M. de Vrillière, which is in a severer style, as befits the subject, which is heroic." Mon. de Vrillière's picture was the "Schoolmaster of the Falisques."
- 1278 Poussin. F. Cavalier armed with a lance.
- 374 Tiziano. Ven. Group of Apostles. First idea for Assumption of B. V. M. Painted for high altar of the church of the Frari, Venice; now in the Accademia.
- 260 Romano (G.) Rom. Dance of Bacchantes.
- 320 Raffaello. Rom. Christ in Glory: B. V. M., SS. John, Paul, and Catherine. Known as The Five Saints.
- 1895 Poussin. F. Marriage B. V. M.
- 1896 Poussin. Same subject, slightly different.
- 1272 Poussin. Cupid striking a satyr with his bow.
- 1276 Poussin. Bacchanalia.

SIDE 1.

- 436 Ven. or Lom. Sch. End of 15th or commencement of 16th Cent.
Attribd. erroneously to A. Mantegna ; possibly by Lorenzo Costa. Judith putting Holofernes' head in a sack.
- *1610 Raffaello. Christ's charge to S. Peter. Study for cartoon in London.
- *1704 Holbein (H.) Ger. Triumph of riches.
- 311 Raffaello. Finding of Joseph's cup in Benjamin's sack.
- 1578 Mondella (Galeazzo, commencement 16th Cent). Drunkenness of Bacchus. Mondella was a miniature painter and engraver on gems at Verona, and is spoken of by Vasari as drawing "very well" ("benissimo") ; but with the exception of this and another (unexhibited) drawing in the Louvre, nothing remains of his works. S.
- 1608 Raffaello. B.V.M. and Child. Similar composition to the Madonna Connestabile, belonging to Emperor of Russia.
- *1607 Raffaello. Study of children on back of the above.
- *319 Raffaello. Dead Christ. According to Passavant this drawing was executed in 1505-6 ; but it is probably of a later date, about 1508. A Holy Family, at Lille, to which is attached a letter dated 1508, is so similar in workmanship that they seem to have been done about the same time, Raffaello rarely finishing his mere studies to this extent.

- Pisano (V.) Veronese. Dog and boar.
- 310 Raffaello. Passage of the Red Sea. Study for one of the Loggie of the Vatican. Squared for the fresco attribd. to Perino del Vaga.
- 1609 Raffaello. An Apostle.
- 1615 Raffaello. Cupid in a swing holding a vase from which flames issue.
- 1640 Vinci (L. da). Animals fighting. Replica in British Museum.
- 1641 Vinci (L. da). Study of drapery.
- 1269 Poussin. F. First idea for Sacrament of Extreme Unction.
- 108 Perino del Vaga (P. Buonacorsi, 1499-1547). Theseus fighting the Amazons; pendant to No. 107. They were designs made for Cardinal Farnese, to ornament a silver coffer (now in the Naples Museum), and were engraved upon rock crystal by Giovanni Bernardi de Castel-Bolognese; hence the great finish of the drawings. The Cardinal ordered designs from other artists; and it appears that Buonarroti's Phaëton forming one of them, Perino seeing it, refused through modesty to furnish any more.
- 107 Perino del Vaga. Triumph of Bacchus.

SIDE 2.

- *84 Fra Bartolommeo. Holy Family.
- *348 Solario (A.) Head of S. John Bapt. Study for No. 397, in Long Gallery 6 (p. 37).
- *124 Buonarroti (M. A.) B. V. M. and Child. Study for mar. group in San Lorenzo, Florence. Mariette says of this drawing, "It is too much finished, as are most of M. Angelo's studies; indeed I know of no master who finished them more. When he was seeking some particular attitude, he dashed his pencil about his paper according to his fancy. But when he studied from nature he followed another method, he caressed his drawing, and threw any amount of work into it; it is no longer a sketch; it is a finished work in which no detail is wanting; it is flesh itself; and he required nothing more to aid him in his sculptures."

- *1616 Raffaello. The Calumny of Apelles. Composition worked out by R. from one of the treatises of Lucian, in which he describes the picture of Apelles, a painter under Ptolemy IV., Philopator, who executed it after having escaped from the detraction of a rival. (This Apelles was not the celebrated painter born at Kos.) Lucian's description is faithfully worked out. "On the right a man is sitting having long ears in the style of those of Midas: he tends his hand to Calumny, who advances. Near him are two women, Ignorance and Suspicion. On the other side Calumny, under the form of a divinely beautiful woman, approaches, apparently consumed by anger and fury; in her left hand she holds a flaming torch; with the other she drags a young man by the hair, who raises his hands to Heaven, as if calling the gods to witness. He is accompanied by a pale, hideous man, with a penetrating eye; one would say, a man worn out by long illness—it is Envy personified; two other women escort Calumny, encouraging her and arranging her attire—probably Deceit and Perfidy. Behind them a wretched-looking hag is walking, dressed in a torn black dress; it is Repentance, turning her head and looking, with tearful eyes and in utter confusion, at Truth, who is approaching her." (Translation from E. Talbot, V. II., p. 286.)
- 382 Vinci (L. da). Profile of a young man in a cap.
- 119 Buonarroto (M. A.) Study for one of the slaves who were to ornament the tomb of Pope Julius II.
- *325 Raffaello. Appearance of SS. Peter and Paul to Attila. First idea for fresco painted 1513-14 in the Chamber of the Heliodorus, Vatican. In the picture R. suppressed several of the soldiers on the left and replaced them by Pope Leo, who, riding a mule, and followed by a numerous retinue, gives the benediction.
- 114 Buonarroto (M. A.) Study of a man.
- 329 Raffaello. Maddalena Doni. Study for No. 59, in the Pitti, Florence.
- *437 Ven. or Lom. Sch. End of 15th or commencement of 16th Cent. Triumph of Vespasian and Titus. Long attribd. erroneously to A. Mantegna. The name of Sodoma, suggested by Passavant, seems no more probable, it being more in the manner of Francia, L. Costa, or Peregrino da San Daniele; but Frizzoni attributes it to B. Peruzzi.
- *315 Raffaello. B. V. M. and Child.

- *123 Buonarroti (M. A.) Studies for statue of David. Mariette remarks
"In this, the first idea for the statue, M. Angelo placed David's right foot upon Goliath's head; but he seems to have been obliged to abandon this idea, although happier than the one carried out, through defects in, or insufficiency of the marble." On the same paper are studies for the arm, and some verses of M. Angelo's; and at back are various studies, probably for a small statue in br. that he was executing at the same time, as a present from the Signoria to the Maréchal de Gié, which was sent in 1508 to Flormond Robertet's château, near Blois, where it was to be seen up to the 17th Cent. The verses are—

Al dolce mormorar d'ù fumiciello
 Chaduggia di verd'obra ù chiaro fonte . . .

SIDE 4.

- 1559 Credi (L.) Monument in form of a ciborium, placed under a baldichino; cover surmounted by figures of Justice, Strength and Temperance.
- 375 Tiziano. Judgment of Paris.
- *324 Raffaello. Battle of Constantine. First idea for picture, painted after R.'s death by G. Romano, in one of the halls of Vatican. In spite of the beauty of this drawing, it is probably by one of R.'s pupils, Polydoro da Caravaggio, as the master's work was generally more simple and light. In the latter part of R.'s life, his commissions were so numerous, that he was obliged to resort to his pupils for aid, which explains certain inequalities in some of his later works. M. Reiset adds a remark, which is not without interest, "It is known that R. sent draughtsmen to Greece to make studies from the antique, and the result may here be seen in the horses' heads, which are copied from the freize of Pheidias; indeed, so great is the resemblance that it cannot be mere chance, for it is not seen in Romano's fresco, nor in any known work either by the master or his pupils."
- 420 Probably by F. Lippi. Young man's head.
- *381 Verrocchio (Andrea del, 1435-88). Study of one of the br. horses at Venice.

Amongst the damned who surround and try to enter the boat, Dante recognises some of the Florentines. S. & d. 1822. When this work was sent to the Salon, Delacroix could not afford to buy a frame; he therefore patched up a miserable thing himself, which, by the time it arrived before the Jury, had fallen in pieces. Baron Gros, seeing the merit of the picture, offered to pay for a frame himself, if it were accepted. On the opening day Delacroix searched for it in vain, and was going away in despair, when one of the attendants pointed it out to him in the Salon d'honneur, in the handsome new frame which it owed to the generosity of Gros.
